25A SANDS POINT

Sands Point is a village located at the tip of the Port Washington Peninsula, on the North Shore of Long Island. It is almost entirely surrounded by water and has many hills and breathtaking waterfront cliffs. It shares borders with Port Washington, Port Washington North and Manorville. It is an example of the Long Island Gold Coast Era. Port Washington serves Sands Point as most of Sands Point is residential homes and you need to drive through Port Washington to get there. Almost all of Sands Point residents go to Port Washington to do their shopping and eat out.

Today Sands Point is a thriving community filled with beautiful homes with Port Washington supplying the lovely shops and restaurants. Keith Baltimore's store in Port Washington shows his anthropological approach to interior design and reflects his clients' unique sense of style and taste. While traditional in spirit, his thematic signature exudes a modern vision, incorporating state-of-the-art technology, products and exotic materials. Riverfish on the Bay is a terrific restaurant that offers the finest in seafood fare and a terrific staff. Everyone we ran into was pleasant and accommodating and you could tell that that had a sense of pride talking about their town.

Sands Point and Port Washington are home to many happy Long Islanders who like the quiet and the rural atmosphere that only Sands Point has and the exciting shops and eateries that only Port Washington offers.
